DXON HOSPITAL DOCTOR IN PAPER AT MEDICAL SOC.

Dr. T. G. Hall Commended for Paper on Epilepsy This Morning

Quincy, Ill., May 21—(AP)—Dr. Mathew Preibesberger of Alton was named president-elect of the Illinois State Medical Society at the conclusion of the 50th annual convention here today. Dr. J. C. Kraft of Chicago, named president-elect in 1924 automatically became president. State medical society presidents are required to serve a year's apprenticeship before actually taking office.

Other officers chosen were: First vice president, Dr. Warren Pearce, Quincy; 2d vice president, Dr. John Piloch, Chicago; treasurer, Dr. A. J. Markley, Belvidere, and secretary Dr. Harold M. Camp, Monmouth.

Dr. William D. Chapman, Silvis, councillor of the fourth district, was named chairman of the council of the society. Dr. C. S. Nelson, as councillor of the fifth district, was retired and Dr. J. Munson of Springfield was named in his place. Dr. L. O. French of Decatur retired in favor of Dr. Parish of Decatur as councillor of the seventh district.

Dr. French Retires.

Dr. French retires from the council to undertake the organization of an extensive post graduate service for country practitioners. This course placed under the supervision of the lay committee of the society, is one of the biggest undertakings it has ever attempted.

Backed by the American Medical Association and the four medical colleges of Illinois, schools will be established at various points throughout the state to permit the county physicians to have the same facilities or special training as the city physician.

Champaign Wins For 26.

The 1926 meeting of the society will be held at Champaign, decided after both Champaign and Moline had presented invitations.

A committee was appointed to arrange for a permanent endowment fund for educational work in health.

Resolutions presented Tuesday were passed. These include the formation of a medical reserve to meet emergencies such as the tornado disaster of southern Illinois; a plea to the legislature explaining the necessity of maintaining high educational standards among those responsible for the health and lives of citizens, and a resolution commending the work of Doctors George and Gladys Dick of Chicago, in developing a cure for scarlet fever.

Dr. T. G. Hall, member of the staff of the Dixon State Hospital, read a paper on epilepsy before the state society today which was characterized by Dr. George W. Hall, noted neurologist of Chicago, as the first paper depicting work of this character in state institutions.

Love of Half a Century Ends in Tragedy This Morn

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Peoria, Ill., May 21—A child hood love which endured through a half century before it found its reward in marriage terminated in tragedy today as Mrs. Mary Best Bell, 67, opened the jets of her gas stove, and went beyond the grave to meet her husband of two years, whom the hand of death had taken from her recently. And with her death is recalled the story the couple had told when they were married.

Two years ago, John Bell returned from the west where he had followed the trails in search of happiness and wealth to find that his childhood sweetheart, whom timidly on his own part had kept from marrying, was a widow with the fire of love still gleaming in her heart for him.

And within a short time they were married. In the rear room of a justice of the peace court here Mrs. Best took from her shopping bag a pair of satin slippers and a pair of white gloves which she had worn at her first wedding, wearing them again in her belated journey to the happiness she sought. Today she was found sitting in a chair at her little home and again she wore the little satin slippers.

DIXON LADY IS PAINFULLY HURT IN AUTO MISHAP

Mrs. W. C. Durkes is Now in Hospital Re- sult of Accident . . .

Mrs. W. C. Durkes is in the Dixon hospital suffering painful, although not necessarily serious, injuries resulting from an automobile accident which occurred late yesterday afternoon at the corner of Brinton Avenue and McKinney Street.

Mrs. Durkes was driving home from the Dixon Country Club, traveling south on Brinton Avenue. Her attention was drawn to a car approaching the intersection on McKinney Street from the east and she did not see a car coming from the west until it shot toward her at a high rate of speed that made a collision seem imminent. In accelerating her car in an attempt to avoid the car coming from the west the big Packard she was driving collided with a tree and the impact severely bruised and lacerated her knees. The car that caused the trouble was going so fast that it was unable to make the turn and dashed up over the lawn at the Wm. Hart home.

SANITARY DIST. BILL FAILED OF PASSAGE TODAY

Further Consideration of Measure Tuesday is Provided for

Springfield, Ill., May 21—(AP)—After a bitter battle during which Speaker Scholes surrendered the chair to plead for the passage of the Chicago sanitary district bond issue bill as an emergency measure, its backers failed to obtain the 102 votes necessary to its passage by the House as an emergency measure. Further consideration of the bill was postponed until next Tuesday, when it will be made a special order of business.

Men who have supported the administration consistently at this session pleaded for passage of the bill on the ground that the money is needed to protect the lives and health of people living in Chicago and in the Illinois valley and that the governor's opposition to the bill as at present drawn is "misguided."

Want Damage Claims Paid.

Majority Floor Leader Cutler averred that the damage claims of persons living in the valley were the source of opposition which was lead by Representative A. O. Arnold, Quincy, and Representative Homer Tice, Greenview. Each promised to vote for the bill if it were amended to still further guarantee payment of the damage claims which have been pending against the Chicago sanitary district for a score of years.

No apparent political division marked the vote, democrats and republicans joining in the effort to put the bill across. Having delayed announcement of the roll call in an effort to force recalcitrants to change their votes, the roll call failed to show the necessary number and the fight ended when Representative R. J. Branson, Centralia, after charging that "high pressure methods" had been used in an effort to sway persons voting their honest convictions against the bill, demanded that the roll call be announced.

Its backers thereupon gave up hope of passing it today and moved for a postponement.

Called Corrupt Machine.

Many who voted for the bill scored the sanitary district as a "corrupt political machine," but supported it on the ground that the men, women and children of Chicago should not be required to face epidemics, pestilence and death as the price of the sanitary district's alleged misdeeds.

Scholes called Representative R. J. Branson, Centralia, to the chair and took the floor when the bill had only 95 votes and it was apparent that it had failed to pass with the emergency clause.

Thought Himself Father of Boy for Nine Months

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, May 21—Nat Bass, wealthy clothing manufacturer, who for nine months proudly regarded himself as the father of a baby boy, was today a disillusioned man. Mrs. Bass has admitted to Assistant District Attorney Pecora, that she bought the infant son from a baby home for $75 and pretended it was her own because her husband longed for an offspring.

The publicity attached to the state's investigation of the infantorium of Mrs. Helen Geisen-Volk, where 44 children have died since 1918, led Mrs. Bass to confess her hoax. She said she feared she might be called in the investigation. She told her husband first and then Mr. Pecora.

It was at the Geisen-Volk institution that the baby was placed in bed with her, she said. Her husband was notified that the stork had arrived. Now she refuses to keep the child, though he and Mrs. Bass love it, because he "doesn't want to live a lie."

Steps have been taken to place the boy with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Dr. Willard Thompson has returned from Quincy, Ill., where he attended the annual meeting of the state medical association.

URGES CARE IN DIAGNOSIS OF SUSPECTED TUBERCULOSIS

Quincy, Ill., May 21—(AP)—Symptoms and physical signs of tuberculosis in a patient do not necessarily indicate the presence of tuberculosis. Dr. M. Lewison, Chicago, said before the Illinois State Medical Society meeting here. Many other diseases, he said, simulate pulmonary tuberculosis in their symptomatology and physical signs.

Dr. Lewison urged great care in the diagnosis of tuberculosis, "as errors in diagnosing non-tuberculosis cases not only unjustly stimulate these cases as tuberculosis, but also deny them proper treatment for their disease," he said.

It was at the Geisen-Volk institution that the baby was placed in bed with her, she said. Her husband was notified that the stork had arrived. Now she refuses to keep the child, though he and Mrs. Bass love it, because he "doesn't want to live a lie."

Steps have been taken to place the boy with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

DIXON MAROONS TO PLAY AMBROY SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The Dixon Maroons baseball team will go to Ambroy next Sunday where they will clash with the Ambroy Independents in the first of a series of games to be played this season. Cupp, a new twirler who has signed with the Maroons, will make his initial appearance on the mound with Phalen doing the receiving. Miller and Stackpole will be the reserve battery for the Maroons. The local team has been doing some strenuous practice work during the past week and are confident of winning this contest.

It's all right fellers. You can dig out the old straw derby, or buy a new straw hat and wear it. The season was officially opened here yesterday by none other than our Chief of Police. Van appeared in a handsome new straw skypiece and said "let her go."

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the President of the United States has placed his endorsement and approval upon the annual sale of Poppies made by disabled men throughout the country under the auspices of the veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, and

WHEREAS, the Veterans of Foreign Wars will cause to be sold on May 21—(AP)—Five men were wounded, one seriously, in an exchange of shots between officers guarding the Dallas county jail and a mob of about 300 persons shortly after 1 o'clock this morning.

A jury after deliberating three hours and taking four ballots last night, returned a verdict of not guilty for Mr. Davis on a charge of conspiring with Carl J. Peterson, former state bank commissioner, to solicit a bribe for a pardon for Walter Grundy, convicted bank wrecker. On the first ballot the jurors stood 10 to 2 for acquittal.

Another Charge Remains.

There remains now against the former governor and his son, Russell G. Davis, a charge of accepting a bribe in connection with the issuance of a pardon to Fred W. Pollman, convicted forger.

The former governor regards his political troubles as ended with his acquittal. Although another criminal suit against him is on the court docket, he said the jury had given him "a complete vindication" and he therefore prepared to return to his farm.

"I am going back to the farm," he said. "The corn fields down in Bourbon County, need me. I am going back to see about the crops and to make a living."

Arrangements have been completed by Horace F. Orrt Ust No. 504 for the sale of Buddy Poppies in Dixon by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. The name "Buddy Poppy" is registered as a trade mark by the V. F. W. and no one not authorized by the local post will be permitted to sell them. Each flower is labeled, and as further precaution the V. F. W. poppy sellers will bear credentials showing that they are authorized by the local committee to sell the official "Buddy Poppy."

"Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag and smile, smile, smile," is the spirit in which throughout the United States disabled and needy veterans, crippled heroes of Chateau Thierry, the Argonne, St. Mihiel and Verdun are working to make the thousands upon thousands of scarlet poppies which will gleam in the button holes of all of America.

Dr. Lewison urged great care in the diagnosis of tuberculosis, "as errors in diagnosing non-tuberculosis cases not only unjustly stimulate these cases as tuberculosis, but also deny them proper treatment for their disease," he said.

It was at the Geisen-Volk institution that the baby was placed in bed with her, she said. Her husband was notified that the stork had arrived. Now she refuses to keep the child, though he and Mrs. Bass love it, because he "doesn't want to live a lie."

"MOTHER DREW"—

(By Hal Cochran.)

News Note—Hoboes of Chicago chipped in dimes and nickels to pay for a decent burial for "Mother Drew" famous character, who for years has worked to better conditions among the floater.

This is merely a thought about Mother Drew, and all of the hoboes and floaters she knew. Her life was a life of just living to do, and make simple hopes of the driftwood come true.

Just picture a man in the derelict plight who hasn't ambition to stand up and fight. What good, you may ask, in the world, can he do, but that wasn't the thought of the good Mother Drew.

A man is a man, as she figured it out, just as long as he's able to travel about. He may be a failure who misses his goal, but his body still boasts of a heart and a soul.

The old human driftwood could always depend on getting response when they turned to this friend. Her pleasure in life, era the living spark fed, was to see that the bums got a meal and a bed.

Menus for Family Tested by SISTER MARY.

Breakfast:

Baked rhubarb with raisins, scrambled eggs with rice, crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon:

Asparagus souffle, rye bread and butter sandwiches, cottage cheese with strawberry preserves, milk, tea.

Dinner:

Roast veal, potatoes roasted with meat, creamed spinach, pineapple and cabbage salad, strawberry pie, whole wheat rolls, milk, coffee.

If you make your own cottage cheese, be sure it is very dry; that all the whey is drained off. Then season it lightly with salt and pepper and a few gratings of nutmeg. Fold the cheese into half as much whipped cream as there is cheese and chill before serving. With strawberry preserves or barbeque currants you have a dish fit for the gods. And more than that cottage cheese is an excellent food for children.

Asparagus Souffle.

One bunch asparagus, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 3 eggs (yolks), 4 eggs (whites),  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt,  $\frac{1}{8}$  teaspoon pepper. Wash and scrape asparagus and cut into inch lengths. Cook in just enough boiling water to prevent burning until tender. Do not drain but rub through a sieve. Melt butter, stir in flour and when perfectly blended slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Cook until thick and smooth. Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored and add to mixture. Add salt and pepper and asparagus puree. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry. Beat on a platter with a wire whisk. Fold into first mixture and turn into a buttered baking dish. Bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once or the souffle will fall.

Don't Believe Gover- nor Favors It

(By Associated Press Leased Wire)

New York, May 21—Delegates to the National Child Welfare Conference were on their way home today agitated by criticisms of the conference and one of its delegates made by Governor Hartley of Washington.

The governor refused to name a delegate and in a statement said he regarded the conference as "altruistic twaddle indulged in by women who leave their homes to canaries and cats and neglect their children."

William P. Totten of Seattle came to the conference as unofficial delegate and during the sessions apologized for the governor's comments.

Then the governor issued a statement describing Mr. Totten as "self-designated, free-riding junketing delegate." The governor also sent Mr. Totten a telegram.

Mr. Totten would not give out the telegram nor comment himself by Miss Sophie Loeb, chairman of the conference, described the message as "a pin prick from a misinformed governor."

"Make It a Duty to Buy Thing of Beauty"

Decatur, Ill., May 21.—(AP)—Listlessness of the United States government toward sculpture, painting and other arts was scored here today by Mrs. Teresa F. Leigh, Chicago, chairman of the department of art of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, speaking to clubwomen at the Federation's state convention.

"No other country on a par with the United States has done so little for its artists," Mrs. Leigh declared. "No country has recognized art less or supported it less than the United States. We have no national collection and no way of honoring our creative artists. We have $5,000,000 worth of art objects stored away in space already outgrown—rare gifts from citizens to our government. Congress has authorized a tract of land in the Mall near the Smithsonian Institution in Washington for this national gallery of art. It expects a private citizen to make the bequest for the building.

"It is inconceivable that the richest nation in the world should expect so much of a private citizen. This year women's clubs are urged to write letters to their congressmen and senators urging them to erect this building.

"Our landscape artists, portraitists, our marine painters are creating with rare understanding. The American sculptor is doing a small figure which is unequalled in any other country."

Mrs. Leigh recommended that each club-cooperate with the state and national art chairmen in giving programs devoted to a study of American art. In connection with a request from the national president regarding art study, Mrs. Leigh said:

"For next year, our general federation president wishes all club women to have an avocation by making with their own hands artistic productions, during the evening with the family assembled. You will be asked to weave rugs, basketry, make embroidery, do modelling, painting and book binding.

"It is hoped in this way to allay much of the social unrest and unhappiness which we find in the world today.

"This year every club in the United States is asked to follow this slogan, 'Make it a Duty to Buy a Thing of Beauty.'

You are asked to pledge and save money to buy pictures done by our best American artists.

"To commemorate the spirit of sacrifice for which our soldier boys gave their lives, I suggest the erection of a permanent war memorial modelled by our best sculptors to be placed in a central park or a beauty spot nearby your town.

"Organize a committee in your club to discover historic spots of interest, relics, documents, preserve historic buildings for collections, and suitable mark historic sites to commemorate some great event in history in your town. Erect a monument for the cultural uplift of the people of your community."

"MOTHER DREW"—

(By Hal Cochran.)

News Note—Hoboes of Chicago chipped in dimes and nickels to pay for a decent burial for "Mother Drew" famous character, who for years has worked to better conditions among the floater.

This is merely a thought about Mother Drew, and all of the hoboes and floaters she knew. Her life was a life of just living to do, and make simple hopes of the driftwood come true.

Just picture a man in the derelict plight who hasn't ambition to stand up and fight. What good, you may ask, in the world, can he do, but that wasn't the thought of the good Mother Drew.

A man is a man, as she figured it out, just as long as he's able to travel about. He may be a failure who misses his goal, but his body still boasts of a heart and a soul.

The old human driftwood could always depend on getting response when they turned to this friend. Her pleasure in life, ere the living spark fled, was to see that the bums got a meal and a bed.

But now she has quietly passed on her way. She's buried—the hoboes were ready to pay. They've chipped in their dimes and they've done all they can to prove what she claimed—that man is a man.

A man may be down but he's never quite out of the knowledge that tells us what love's all about.

TENNESSEE STATE EDUCATION BOARD INVOLVED.

The Tennessee anti-evolution law, really an anachronism in this country, is going to have a try-out in the case against J. T. Scopes of Dayton, Tenn., a teacher in the Dayton high school, and W. J. Bryan has been secured to assist in the prosecution. Scopes was held to the grand jury on the simple charge of "teaching children the law of evolution." If the law is held valid of course Scopes will be found guilty in the Tennessee courts. If the case reaches the United States supreme court, which it probably will, then there is considerable hope that the law will be held unconstitutional.

The Tennessee law plainly forbids the teaching of evolution. The prosecutor at the preliminary trial submitted a textbook alleged to teach evolution, and showed that the defendant had taught out of that book. "It does teach evolution," comments a correspondent, "and it was approved by the state board of education." So it may be found necessary before the business is done, to put the state board of education in jail.

The whole matter is lamentable. It may matter little, in serious consideration of such laws, whether the forbidden doctrines are true or false. A very large number of educated persons probably believe in evolution as a general law of life-development. But suppose that Darwinism or any other scientific system is false. What business is that of legislative bodies?

Science, like religion, should be free. Progress depends on that principle as much as on anything else in the world. Why should politicians have anything more to say about what shall be taught as science in the schools than about what shall be taught as religion in the churches? If legislatures can properly forbid the teaching of any scientific theory held by large numbers of intelligent and respectable citizens, why not likewise forbid the teaching of the doctrines of intelligent and respectable religious sects?

What this country needs, right now, is "a new birth of freedom" in the realm of intellect.

SOUTHERN LAND SETTLEMENT.

A new land-settling movement is to be planned soon and gotten under way as rapidly as possible. It is directed toward some of the swampy, cut-over and abandoned farm lands of the south. The United States secretary of the interior, the commissioner of reclamation and other officials are to meet soon to discuss the whole problem. Every one concerned is anxious to see the most businesslike procedure followed, with avoidance of many of the mistakes made in settling the west.

Congress has authorized federal co-operation with the states and will appropriate the necessary funds at its next session. There will be more careful selection of the settlers, for it has been discovered that knowledge and interest are essential to agricultural success. Responsibility for financing the settlers will be shared by state and local interests.

In addition to the importance of getting idle or waste land reclaimed and under cultivation, the movement is intended to stem the tide of farm tenancy in the south.

The industrial development of the southern states is a fine thing, but it should not and probably can not be promoted at the expense of sound agricultural development.

FOILING THE MATERNAL HEN.

Italian poultrymen have a new scheme to keep hens from setting. They stick a little feather through a hen's nostrils with the ends standing out right in front of her eyes. It is said that the feeling and the looks of the thing are so engrossing to the poor hen that it drives all thoughts of maternity out of her mind, and she resumes her regular egg-laying job as usual.

It sounds like a cruel and unusual way of exploiting hens; but then, hens seem to have been made for exploiting, like cows. These two domesticated creatures probably split first prize for all round stupidity. Stupid creatures are usually exploited, anyway, and exploitation makes them still more stupid.

Note an exception, though, in the life of either hen or cow. Let the hen once start setting on a nest of eggs, and you will find that she takes mighty intelligent care of them, before and after hatching. Likewise the cow with a calf. Maternity has its own wisdom, which passes that of Solomon.

MYSTERY.

In Ireland they find more of the mysterious porcelain images of apes which have been dug up over there, 50 found since year 1780, in widely scattered places.

Chinese scholars claim these porcelain images are of Chinese origin, including their peculiar hieroglyphics, and date back to the year 500 B. C. How did they get to Ireland? Did Chinese explorers travel that far? The ancient history of China, as it comes to light, will be fascinating.

NO. 16—THE PARADISE BIRD

"Why! What is it?" asked the bird anxiously. "Don't you like me?"

"Well! Well! Well!" cried Doctor Bill. "Who is this coming?"

Nancy and Nick looked out of the window and saw a big bird settle down in a nearby tree—a bird such as they had never seen in all their lives before.

"It's a perfectly beautiful bird!" cried Nancy flinging open the door and rushing out. "Come on, Nick! Come on, Doctor Bill—and see him."

Nick and the bird doctor were close at her heels for they were just as curious as Nancy was. Doctor Bill settled his glasses on his nose and peered up into the green depths of the tree.

"Why do I do believe—yes, sir, it is, as sure as you're born!" he cried.

"How do you do, sir? Come on down. We are all friends here. No one will hurt you."

"Are you 'sure'?" screeched the bird. "Am I at the right place?" Is

SOUNDEST MIND IS ONE WHICH IS ALERT

"I never know how I feel until I see the newspapers," said Colonel John Coolidge, the president's father. That is pretty near the case with every person of wholesome mind as well as body.

Colonel Coolidge, to be sure, at eighty years, must anticipate some ills, and final weakness and death.

But for all of us, young or old, introspection is an unwholesome habit physically as well as mentally.

The soundest mind is the one that is constantly and actively interested, impersonally, in something outside itself.

Self-centeredness is one of the tests of mental inferiority or abnormality. If you find things important only in proportion to their relation to yourself, suspect yourself.

Such "sensitivity" is a mark, not of "fineness," but of weakness of character. And physically, it aggravates whatever ills we have.

Find something outside of yourself. Be interested, not in what it can do for you, but in what you can do for it. So shall you live longer, happier, wiser and sounder.

Presently, without any arrangement, he strolled over to the orchestra which was playing "Second to None," took the baton and conducted the piece to its end.

SYNOPSIS

Malone, a London newspaper reporter, rejected by the girl he loves because he has no heroic deeds to his credit, appeals to his editor for a dangerous assignment, and is sent to interview the irascible Professor Challenger, who has recently returned from an expedition to South America with an amazing story, which no one believes, of the existence on a great plateau there of many forms of prehistoric life. By way of proof he exhibits to Malone two sketches—one showing the cliffs beneath the plateau, the other a monstrous animal resembling the stegosaurus—which he had found among the possessions of a dead explorer, Maple White; some blurred photographs; and a piece of the wing of a huge flying serpent, or pterodactyl, which he says he shot down. Malone is convinced of the professor's sincerity.

At a scientific lecture that night which he invites the reporter to attend Challenger creates an uproar by constantly interrupting the lecturer, denying his assertion that mastodon life is extinct, and challenging the audience to send out an expedition to test the truth of his own theories. There are three volunteers: Professor Summerlee, a scientist, and a bitter enemy of Challenger's; Malone, still in quest of adventure; and Lord John Roxton, well known sportsman and explorer. After the meeting Malone accompanies Lord John to his rooms to make plans for the trip.

"A reserve, perhaps."

"I thought I remembered your face. Why, I was there when you got that try against Richmond—as fine a swervin' run as I saw the whole season. I never miss a rug by match if I can help it, for it is the manliest game we have left. Well, I didn't ask you in here just to talk sport. We've got to fix our business. Here are the salin's, on the first page of the Times. There's a Booth boat for Para next Wednesday week, and if the Professor and you can work it, I think we should take it—what? Very good. I'll fix it with him. What about your outfit?"

"My paper will see to that." "Can you shoot?"

"About average Territorial standard."

"Good Lord! as bad as that? It's the last thing you young fellahs think of learnin'. You're all been without stings, so far as lookin' after the hive goes. You'll look silly, some o' these days when someone comes along an' sneaks the honey. But you'll need to hold your gun straight in South America, for, unless our friend the Professor is a madman or a liar, we may see some queer things before we get back. What gun have you?"

"He crossed to an oaken cupboard, and as he threw it open I caught a glimpse of glistening rows of polished barrels, like the pipes of an organ."

"I'll see what I can spare you out of my own battery," said he.

One by one he took out a succession of beautiful rifles, opening and shutting them with a snap and a clank, and then putting them as he put them back into the rack as tenderly as a mother would fondle her children.

"This is a Bland's 557 axle express," said he. "I got that big

"Why, young fellah, where have you lived? Sir John Ballinger is the best gentleman Jock in the north country. I could hold him on the fat at my best, but over jumps he's my master. Well, it's an open secret that when he's out of trainin' he drinks hard—strakin' an average, he calls it. He got delirium on Toosday, and has been ragin' like a devil ever since. His room is above this. The doctors say that it is all up with the old dear unless some food is got into him, but as he lies in bed with a revolver on his coverlet, and swears he will put six of the best through anyone that comes near him, there's been a bit of a strike among the serving-men. He's a hard nail, is Jack, and a dead shot, too, but you can't leave a Grand National winner to die like that—what?"

"What do you mean to do, then?" I asked.

"Well, my idea was that you and I could rush him. He may be doin', and at the worst he can only wing one of us, and the other should have him. If we can get his bolster-cover round his arms and then 'phone up a stomach-pump, we'll give the old dear the supper of his life."

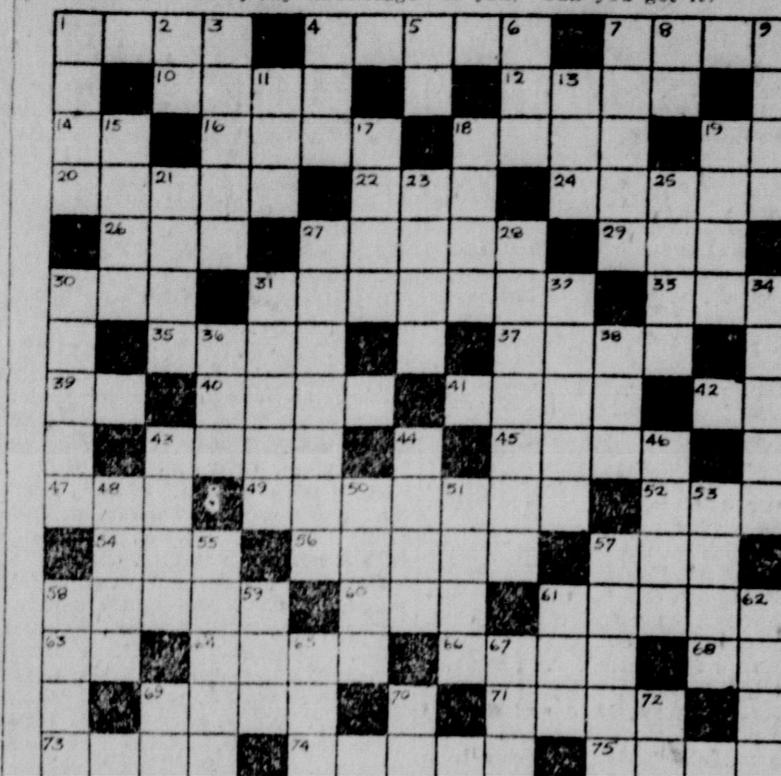

It was a rather desperate business to come suddenly into one's day's work. I don't think that I am a particularly brave man. I have an Irish imagination which makes the unknown and the untried more terrible than they are. On the other hand, I was brought up with a horror of cowardice and with a terror of such a stigma. I dare say that I could throw myself over a precipice, like the Hun in the history books, if my courage to do it were questioned, and yet it would surely be pride and fear, rather than courage, which would be my inspiration. Therefore, although every nerve in my body shrank from the whisky-maddened figure which I pictured in the room above, I still answered, in as careless a voice as I could command, that I was ready to go. Some further remark of Lord Roxton's about the danger only made me irritable.

"Talking won't make it any better," said L. "Come on."

I rose from my chair and be from his. Then with a little con-have been telling you about Leslie. She God bless her, was doing nothing that was in the least indiscreet. But, Syd, I must tell you that until that moment I really never knew how much I loved her. All through our great tribulations, even when she placed my son, who was her son, in my arms, I did not know that she might be as provocative of love to some other man as she is to me.

I learned that night that a man, even though he will not forgo his fancied right to admire any woman whom he shall choose, denies that right emphatically to his wife.

I had sometimes excused myself when I did some "damphool" act by saying that, although I loved Leslie better than any other woman on earth, I had to introduce a little variety into my life.

I reminded myself of the young boy who, when asked to write an essay on the domestic affairs of ancient Rome, said: "At that time, a man had only one wife. This was called monogamy."

I found out at that party, Syd, that there was no danger of monogamy with Leslie. She had had all the variations of femininity. Fool that I am, I did not recognize it before.

When I married her, I thought of her only as a girl I loved, a girl who loved me. When the episode of Little Jack came up, I placed her among the saints almost too fine for the every day man I knew myself to be. Later through the sorrow and pain of the deaths of her father and sister she became my "lady of Sorrows" and when I saw your god child in her arms, I knew that in her gru-cious loveliness she typified the motherhood of the race. Then just as I had placed her on the pedestal devoted to the Madonnas of the world, she showed me an allure that I had never found before in another woman.

"She is mine, she is mine," I said to myself as the dry voice of my mother reproving her came to my ears. I had no thought but to protect my own. I strode toward Leslie and snatched her from all of them. I said: "Come on. Let's fox-trot." (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

SUFFERED AFTER BIRTH OF BABY

Trouble Caused by Getting Up Too Soon. Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Talcville, New York.—"I thought it would interest you to know what benefit I have derived from taking your medicine. A few days after the birth of my third child I got up too quick. Then just before my fifth child was born I had inflammation of the bladder and displacement. Seeing your advertisement in a Liverpool (England) paper I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was the best confinement I had. Whenever I run down I always take the Vegetable Compound as a tonic. We have just removed from Brockville (Canada) so I was pleased when the store ordered the medicine for me and I got it today. I would not be without it for any price and I recommend it to ladies around here because I feel so sure it will benefit any woman who takes it."—Mrs. AGNES WIGNALL, Talcville, New York.

Women can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve them from its peculiar to their sex. For sale by druggists everywhere.

"THE BIBLE" WAS SUBJECT UNIQUE SERMON SUNDAY

Rev. L. D. Lamkin Delivered Fine Address at His Church.

The third, and final, installment of Dr. L. D. Lamkin's sermon on The Bible, delivered by him at his church Sunday evening, is published here-with:

The world, long since, has come to recognize the unquestioned fact that the Bible has influenced all the best and most equitable law of civilized nations. Nor is it less a recognized fact that the Bible has influenced the Fine Arts of the world's history, Architecture, Sculpture, Painting and Music. There was an splendid architecture in the history of the nation till the building of the Temple at Jerusalem, whose golden tipped spires pointed toward the source of wisdom which has directed the progress of the world through unnumbered ages. There was massive, and perhaps imposing architecture, but none that equalled in splendor Solomon's Temple. There is stood the wonder of the ages. Or if you turn to sculpture—the one masterpiece of the age is Michel Angelo's "David." Eye witnesses attest that marble in sculpture is so life-like that it seems to breathe and move. It is a Biblical character and by a Christian artist.

Or study, if you will, the most attractive and splendid paintings by the Masters of the ages—Titian, Rubens and Raphael. In the great art gallery at Dresden there hangs a painting before which students of art stand for hours every day. Then the walk about those halls and corridors so eloquent with the art of the ages, but come back again and stand with tireless interest before that one canvas on which Raphael has placed more of human, angelic and divine ideals than ever went into any masterpiece of all history. An eye witness has told me that so overwhelming was the influence of that painting that he could stand before it for a whole year, and the last day of the year and the last hour of the day and the last minute in the hour he could see some new beauty and some new attraction. This was the product of a Christian mind. Or turn to the sphere of Music and ask, "What are the master-pieces of the ages?" There is but one answer—The creation and The Nativity. I have listened to the rendition of these by hundreds of trained voices, for days at a time till it seemed that the billows of heaven had surged with inexpressible joy against the heart of men. These are drawn directly from the Bible.

Second: The uplifting of Human Character.

Never yet has the world produced a great man whose life was not influenced by revealed truth. Human greatness is not expressed in such characters as Napoleon, Alexander the Great, nor the Caesars. These were not great. They were all selfish human monsters who could stop with heartless indifference on the quivering forms of their dying comrades to rise to the heights of their personal ambition. The true element of human greatness is self-dethronement for the common good of mankind—to make life an investment in the life of the world—a contribution to the highest good of others. The great men who have uplifted the moral and intellectual life of the world were Moses, Isaiah, Paul, Martin Luther, Wesley, Spurgeon and the mighty army of heroes of Faith. These laid their lives upon the altar of human interest. These were the men whose lives were moulded by the mellowing influence of this revelation from God.

III The Bible as an Indispensable Book to the Progress of the World and the Happiness of Mankind.

Tholuck, the celebrated author, once said: "Whoever stands on a lofty mountain, should not look merely at the gold which the morning sun pours on the grass or showers at his feet; but he should sometimes look behind him into the deep valley where the shadows still rest, that he may the more sensibly feel that the sun is indeed the sun. Thus we should glance over the dark stage where men play their part in lonely gloom without the light of Revelation. An African Prince once sent delegation to Queen Victoria, the greatest ruler in English history, to inquire the secret of England's greatness. She handed them a beautifully bound volume of the Bible and said: "Return and tell your Prince that this is the secret of England's greatness." And let us not forget the foundation stones of our American government were laid with an open Bible and cemented with the prayers and tears of Christian men. And here I beg to say that the safety and perpetuity of our national government is as well as a declaration of scriptures that, "Where there is no prophet the people perish."
